Around the World in Eighty Days

Jules Verne

Text adaptation by Bill Bowler

Illustrated by Mark Draisey

Jules Verne (1828–1905) was born in Nantes, France, and he started to write for the theatre when he was a student in Paris. His first novel was Five Weeks in a Balloon (1862), and he went on to write more than sixty other science fiction and adventure books. He became one of the most famous writers of his time.

Around the World in Eighty Days

Chapter 1

It is London in 1872.

And this is Mr Phileas Fogg's house.

around all the way round world where we all live; people live in lots of different countries in the world

Mr Phileas Fogg is an English gentleman. He lives in London.

He hasn't got a wife or children, but he has got a French servant – Passepartout.

Fogg goes to his club every day.

He eats at his club at 12 o'clock. In the afternoon he reads there. In the evening he eats there again. Then he talks with his friends, and at midnight he goes home.

gentleman a man from a rich family who does not need to work servant a person who works for someone rich club a place where gentlemen meet

Passepartout /'pæspɑːtuː/

Passepartout is happy. He wants a quiet job.

But one evening, Fogg sees something interesting in The Times.

At the club Fogg's friends talk.

'That gentleman thief can't go far,' says Ralph.

'With trains and ships, today's detectives move fast.'

'But thieves can move fast too,' Flanagan says.

bank people put money and expensive things here

ship you use a ship to go across the water detective a special policeman thief (plural thieves) a person who takes things without asking

'Today you can go round the world in eighty days,' says Fogg.

'Do it, and I pay you £20,000,' says Stuart.

'I'm leaving tonight,' answers Fogg. 'Perhaps I can't do it, Stuart. But then I pay you £20,000.'

The train for France leaves before nine in the evening. Fogg must be back in London by 21st December.

Fogg gives £20,000 in a bag to his servant. 'We're leaving for France,' he says. Passepartout isn't very happy.

They go to France. Then they take a train to Italy, and a ship to Port Said in Egypt.

When their ship arrives in Suez, an English detective – Mr Fix – is waiting. He's looking for the gentleman thief.

Fogg visits the passport office.

Mr Fix sees him there. 'It's the gentleman thief!' he thinks. 'I must tell London.'

Chapter 2

Fix looks at Passepartout.

'Where are you going?' he asks. 'Around the world,' says Passepartout. 'But right now I need some new shirts.'

Fix takes him to a shop and leaves him there.

Then he sends a telegram to London.

Later he gets on the ship for Bombay with Fogg and Passepartout.

telegram a very short letter that you send very quickly

It is 20th October. They all arrive in Bombay – two days early. At 4.30 in the afternoon, Fogg and Passepartout leave the ship. They want to get a train across India to Calcutta. It leaves at 8 o'clock.

First Fogg goes to the passport office. Then he eats at the station.

Passepartout visits the temple at Malebar Hill but he doesn't take off his shoes.

The priests get angry. They take his shoes and Passepartout runs away.

station people get on and off trains here

temple some people go here to pray priest a man who works in a temple

Fogg and Passepartout get on the train, but Fix stays in Bombay. He is waiting for a telegram from London.

After three days the train stops. The railway from Kholby to Allahabad isn't ready.

Some men are building the railway. But there are 80 kilometres without a railway between Kholby and Allahabad.

In Kholby, Passepartout gets some new shoes. He also finds an elephant to take them to Allahabad.

They stop near a temple in the village of Pillaji. The old Indian prince is dead. His young wife, the princess, must die with him in a big fire.

'We must help that woman!' says Fogg.

The priests start the fire. Through the smoke Fogg sees something beautiful. The prince stands up and takes the princess out of the fire.

The prince and the princess come nearer. Fogg sees that the man is not the prince. It is Passepartout in the prince's clothes.

'Quickly! Let's go!' says Passepartout to Fogg, quietly.

Suddenly the priests see the prince's body on the fire. They see that the man in the prince's clothes is not the prince, and they become angry.

Fogg, Passepartout and the princess leave very quickly on the elephant.

Fix doesn't arrest Fogg in Queenstown. He's waiting for them to arrive in England.

They get on a train and travel to Dublin. There they get a fast ship to Liverpool.

In Liverpool Fix arrests Fogg at last, and takes him to prison.

In prison Fogg looks at his diary.

At two o'clock he looks at his watch. 'There's time to go to London on a fast train and to be at my club by 8.45 this evening,' he thinks.

GRAMMAR CHECK

Time clauses with before, after, and when before links a later action with an earlier action.

Fix sends a telegram to London before he gets on the ship for Bombay.

after links an earlier action with a later action.

After Passepartout visits the temple, the priests take his shoes.

when links two actions close in time.

When their ship arrives in Suez, a detective is waiting for them.

We can put before, after, and when clauses at the start of the sentence or at the end.

When we write the time clause first, we must use a comma.

9 Do you remember the story? Complete the sentences with before, after, or when.

- a Fix first sees Fogg when he visits the passport office in Suez.

Journey to the Centre of the Earth

Jules Verne

In Hamburg, Germany, Professor Otto Lidenbrock comes home with an old Icelandic book. In it there is a message about a journey to the centre of the Earth. This is the beginning of one of Jules Verne's most exciting stories.

'Is this message true? We must go to Iceland and see!' says Lidenbrock excitedly. But his nephew, Axel, wants to stay at home.

Can Lidenbrock and Axel – and their Icelandic guide, Hans – find the centre of the Earth? And can they all get back alive after their many underground adventures?
